Eardley Elementary School Introduces
*ChrisPix Enterprises

Eardley School is pleased to introduce ChrisPix Enterprises: a venture which creates a variety of photography-based projects with the added goal of educating the school community about the abilities and challenges that exist for persons living within the Autism Spectrum.

Individuals within this spectrum have difficulty in the areas of communication, social interaction, and creativity. Christopher, the inspiration behind ChrisPix Enterprises, made huge strides in these areas through photography. Armed with a camera, Christopher was motivated to explore his environment and interact with students and staff at Eardley.

Principal Sandra Chenard with
ChrisPix Enterprises founder.

In September ChrisPix presented parents of Kindergarten students with a personalized calendar featuring their child's first days of school. Eardley students who graduated in June 2007 will cherish memories captured in the family portraits Christopher took at the final leaving ceremony. Christopher also enjoys being the subject of photography.

He is in the process of writing his second book, "My Life as a Fireman", which features him during his visit at the local fire station. Once a book is complete, he shares copies with students in other classes and reads the story to them. His young audiences get a great story, along with the message that those with differences are very capable with a great deal to offer.

Congratulations, Chris!
