Support and Information Sharing Among Men A Workshop For Fathers and Husbands with Children on the Autism/Asperger's Spectrum

Saturday, February 7th from 1 to 5 pm: Rideau Tennis Club, 1 Donald Street.

This workshop is designed specifically for fathers, partners and husbands caring for children with ASD. It is designed to provide information and sharing- Men Speaking to Men, who share the common situation of being a parent to children with special needs. Personal experiences capable of fostering the development of mutual support, exchange and dialogue where participants can openly and safely learn of various strategies, resources and services and guide the development of future events, resources and supports that may be deemed useful to them.

Dr. Sanford Siegel received a Ph.D.. from the University of Toronto in 1980 in Educational Theory specializing in Adult Education and Psycho-Social Group Methods. After his degree, he obtained six years of psychotherapy training and supervision in Vancouver and successfully conducted a full time psychotherapy practice. He is currently in private practice in Ottawa

This workshop will be delivered in a small group context (max 20) and will require pre-registration. Please call Nancy Haans (RCP Coordinator- Ottawa Chapter) for more information or to register at: 613-230-6305 ext 3 or email.
